The CBOSS transnational corporation will take part in Arabcom 2007, the 10th international IT and telecommunications conference and exhibition, held in Dubai, the United Arab Emirates, on April 11-12, 2007.

Traditionally Arabcom 2007 will host state officials and telecommunications experts representing the largest IT corporations, vendors, telecommunications operators, and Internet providers from the Middle East and many other regions. Last year, the forum was attended by 500 delegates from 50 countries.

CBOSS Corporation regularly participates in the international conferences, including those held in the Middle East.

This region is strategically important for the corporation. The first international office of CBOSS was opened in Dubai. Today, CBOSS solutions are operated by telecommunications companies in Jordan, Saudi Arabia, and Syria.

Arabcom 2007 will focus on the challenges and opportunities associated with delivering next generation networks, broadband communications, and VoIP. CBOSS Corporation will present a report, "CBOSS Solutions: Meeting the Requirements of Telecommunications Operators", focused on the latest achievements of CBOSS in the development of end-to-end industrial convergent IT solutions.
